Barrios Farms is home to fourth generation farmers in Yolo County, CA — farming tomatoes, sunflowers, almonds, walnuts, garlic, wheat, and alfalfa. This facility functions as an agricultural equipment storage building.

The 60' by 60' clear span structure features dormers and bi-parting sliding barn doors, with a widow's peak at each end of the building. The dormers have 1' overhangs with window openings on the endwalls of each. The dormer columns sit on support beams within the roof of the barn.
